

Remember: The goal is to end up with your emotional priorities lined up perfectly with your intellectual priorities, but it's okay if that's currently not the case. Be honest with where your emotional priorities are now as you write them out. Then, work intentionally every day to restructure them with your actions. You can do it!

[illegible]